5 🏠 1 🚗

Built in 1891 for esteemed Box Hill resident William Thodey, this unique heritage-listed villa features a distinctive French Second Empire design from notable Melbourne architect Arthur E. Clarke, revealing fascinating preserved features both inside and out.

Nestled on a 1799m² block, the property has been called 'home' by a short list of distinguished families over the course of 123-years history, but it's now in need of a sympathetic renovation to restore its original splendour.

Potential to be one of the most magnificent homes, the property referred to as the 'McCook House' in honour of its beloved former residents - is the only known example of
